REVISTA CHILENA DE ORNITOLOGÍA
SPECIAL ISSUE

IN TRIBUTE TO DANIEL GONZÁLEZ-ACUÑA
Our first editor-in chief

The editorial committee of the *Revista Chilena de Ornitolog*ía is planning a special issue in tribute to our first editor-in-chief Daniel González-Acuña. We invite Daniel's colleagues, friends, students, and ex-students to be part of this proposal. If you wish to contribute to this issue, you can do so by contributing with articles, brief communications, comments/opinions, anecdotal stories, and photographs.

Articles and short communications should address topics related to any of the research lines that Daniel developed. These include veterinary medicine, rescue and rehabilitation, parasitology, epidemiology, and the natural history of birds. Comments and opinions may comprise critical reviews about topics or concepts related to parasitology and epidemiology. Anecdotal accounts may cover stories about any life experience that highlight Daniel's personal, academic, or scientific virtues. The photographs may show Daniel in any of his facets and must be of high quality.

If you have already decided to submit your contribution, send us a message with the tentative title of your manuscript. In this way, we will avoid theme redundancy and plan this special edition more effectively. When writing your manuscript, follow the editorial guidelines of our journal. All contributions will go through peer review to ensure a high quality of analysis, content, and presentation. Please, send your queries, messages, and manuscripts through the official email of our journal.

We hope to publish this issue within the second semester of 2022. The exact date will depend on the number of contributions we receive up to August 30. For more details, do not hesitate to contact us.
